The Inverness Fairtrade Group launches a new website: fairtradeinverness.org on World Food Day, October 16th

Food Security has become an issue closer to home for many of us, during this global pandemic.

- *Whether it's been venturing out to restock our larders or searching for affordable meals on a tighter budget.
- *Whether it's Food Banks or Food Miles, social justice or environmental concern, our food supply matters.
- *So much of our diet depends on farmers and producers across the globe – we simply cannot grow all we need (or want) in our own country.
- *Buying Fairtrade is a simple way to ensure that social justice and environmental responsibility are part of the whole process, not just the concern for our own local community.
- *Fair prices for farmers and consumers. That sounds fair!

Why not mark World Food Day by checking out our new website www.fairtradeinverness.org with information about Fairtrade principles, partner organisations, local Fairtrade stockists (shops and cafes), and how to get involved with local activities.

World Food Day: 16 October Fairtrade is part of the whole picture

Fair ?

Fairtrade is about:

- fair terms of trade for farmers and workers in the majority world.
- decent working conditions for resilient communities
- local sustainability and environmental justice
